Barkley Garden

on the University of Nebraska–Lincoln’s East Campus

A place to gather, relax and reflect

Plans are currently underway to transform the playground next to the Barkley Center on UNL’s East Campus into a garden respite for all.

In addition to a number of trees and beautiful flowers including creeping phlox, purple coneflower and ruby gold sedum, Barkley Garden will have picnic tables for relaxing lunches and benches where students, faculty, staff and visitors to the Barkley Center can sit to enjoy the garden’s beauty.

This wonderful new addition will be a quiet place where families and caretakers of clinic patients can spend time while waiting for appointments.

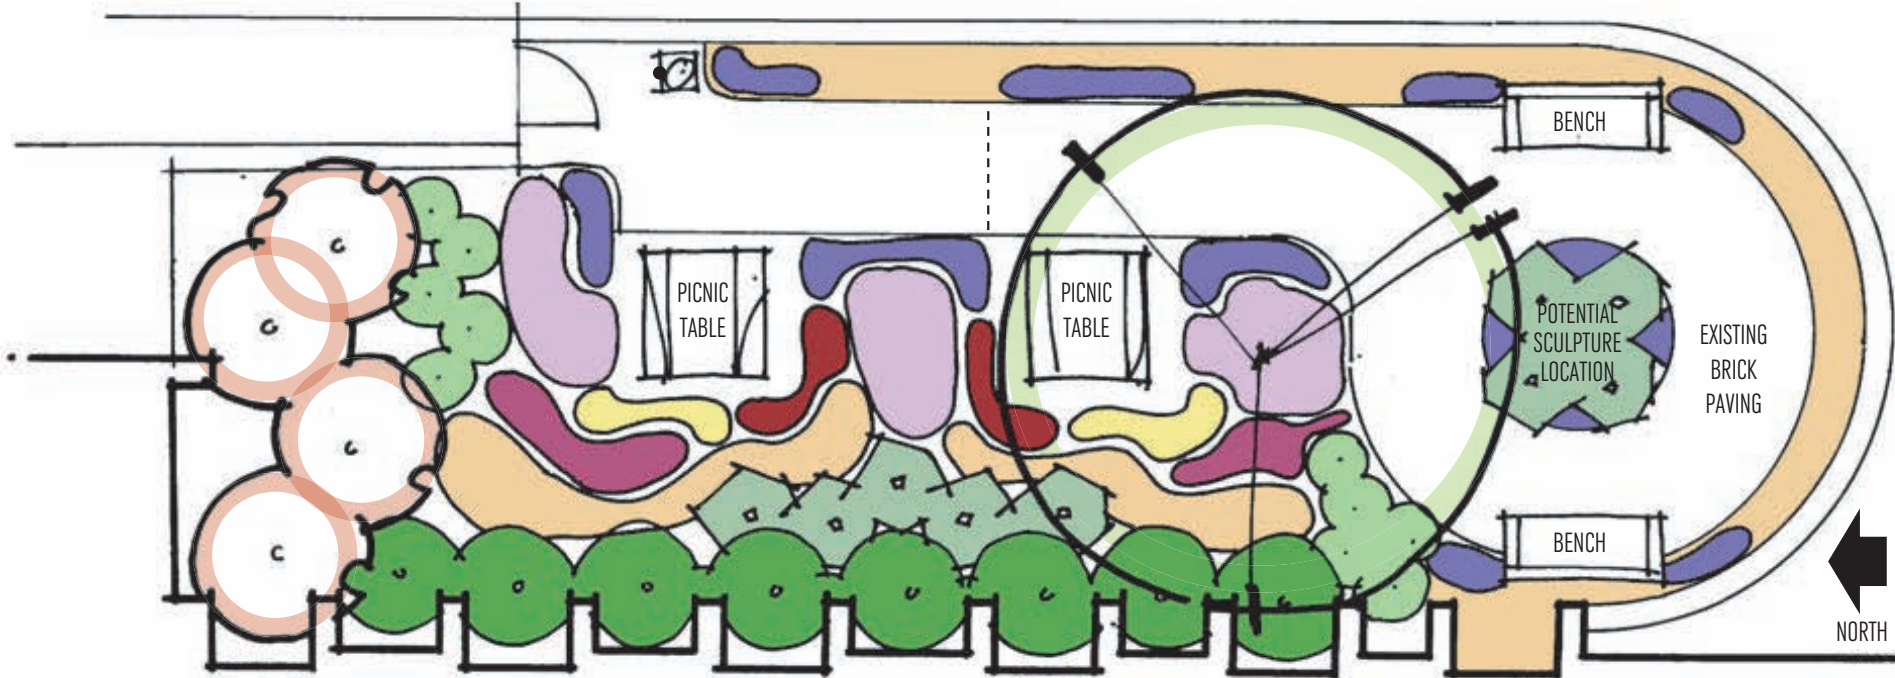

Help us bring Barkley Garden into full bloom

Barkley Garden will be a splendid addition to the Barkley Center, but the University of Nebraska needs your help to make it possible.

Your gift to Barkley Garden will help us prepare the site as well as purchase trees, plants and shrubs that will transform this area into one of beauty, peace and serenity.
