This award is given to acknowledge a nationally or internationally recognized member of the College who has either a record of long-term achievement or an outstanding piece of research/creative work. The recipient will be acknowledged at the CEHS awards ceremony and awarded $1,000. Eligibility Requirements:

1. Nominations of full-time CEHS members must be for one individual only and not a couple or a team.
2. Percentage of research time includes 1% to 100% (to include all faculty, full time tenure-stream and/or multiple year contract)
3. The nominee must currently be engaged in research or creative activity at the University.
4. Recipients may be nominated multiple years but receive the award only once.

Selection criteria: a record of long-term achievement or an outstanding piece of research/creative work, evidence of national or international recognition, contribution to the respective field of knowledge, impacts of research relative to the CEHS mission, evidence of external funding, mentorship, and dissemination of findings in academic and public realms.

Nomination Process: Nominations may be initiated by peers or administrators. The nominator must notify the candidate and secure his or her approval. (Please see nomination form). The nominator will also secure two letters of candidate support from senior faculty at peer institutions. These letters are then included with the candidate-prepared materials.

Candidate Materials: The candidate should submit a maximum of five relevant research papers or creative work examples along with the most recent vitae and a statement of research (e-ARFA excerpts are welcome). A letter from the candidate's administrator and two senior faculty at peer institutions (discussed above) should accompany the materials highlighting the 'selection criteria' previously listed.

Selection Process: The selection committee, made up of two representatives from the CEHS Research Committee and two representatives from the CEHS Awards Committee, will review candidates and make the final selection.
