Brief biography and current projects

Marina Camodeca obtained her Ph.D. in Developmental Psychology and Education in 2003 at the Vrije Universiteit, Amsterdam, the Netherlands. Since 2005 she is Assistant Professor at the University "G. D'Annunzio" of Chieti-Pescara, Italy.

Her research interests include bullying and victimization in toddlerhood, childhood and adolescence, with a particular focus on social cognitions, emotions and morality. She is also involved in projects about bullying among siblings and about bullying in children with autism. She is currently interested in investigating the moral emotions of shame and guilt in children involved in bullying, and the personality and familiar aspects characterizing them.

Besides bullying, she is involved in projects about the development of socio-emotional competence in preschoolers. In particular, she collaborated in the Italian adaptation of the Q-Sort for social competence and in studies about moral emotions.
