

BUROS
Center for Testing

Buros Center for Testing-
Educational Testing Service
Third Annual Lecture

Dr. John Young,
Educational Testing Service

Ensuring Valid and Fair Content Assessments for Language Minority Students

Monday, March 30, 2009

3:00 - 4:30 pm

Teachers College Hall, Room 139

John W. Young is a Senior Research Scientist in the Center for Validity Research at the Educational Testing Service, where he directs validity research on English language learners. He was a faculty member for 17 years in the Educational Statistics, Measurement, and Evaluation program at Rutgers University. He received his Ph.D. in educational measurement from Stanford University in 1989 and has widely published his research in journal articles and book chapters.

For further information, contact: Kurt F. Geisinger, Director
Buros Center for Testing; 402-472-6203; kgeisinger2@unl.edu