preparation, department information receptionist, and managing the building and facilities for the Barkley Memorial Center. Indeed, Heidi will do whatever is needed to facilitate the department's mission. Heidi is a valued member of the Barkley team. She is personable and diligent and aims to please, never complaining or dodging responsibilities. Multiple demands and competing priorities is the perfect description of our setting, yet Heidi manages to get everything done and done well. She has repeatedly demonstrated her teamwork and willingness to go above the call of duty to meet a common goal and make sure we can work in the most efficient way possible. Heidi works and interacts well with everyone she encounters from maintenance workers to visiting professors. She is flexible and enthusiastic about learning new information for the tasks she addresses. If she does not know something, she takes the initiative and time to learn about it. She is one of those individuals who adds in a very positive way to the work environment.”

Congrats, Nell Inselman! Nell, a staff member in the Business Center, was honored with the CEHS Staff Star award for June 2012. Nell is the travel specialist for the college.
her nominator had a lot to say about her work:

"Nell deserves to be recognized for her exemplary professional attitude and demeanor & willingness to go above and beyond her scope of duties! She has a wealth of knowledge and is happily willing to share and teach that knowledge and does so with an abundance of patience. She provides the utmost respect to all she comes in contact with, whether it be the Dean, her supervisors, her co-workers or even students and faculty. Nell is very efficient in her work and makes every minute productive & when she is caught up on her own duties she is the first to go around and ask if she can help with anything. She goes above and beyond in stepping up to the plate and pinch hitting for anyone if it is needed. She understands enough of each position in the business center that she can help out anywhere needed! She does all of this with a smile and without complaint!"

Congrats, Jill England! Jill, a staff member in SECD, was honored April 17 with the CEHS Staff Star award. Jill is the graduate secretary for the department and her nominator had a lot to say about her work:

"Jill does an outstanding job of managing our graduate programs in special education and communication disorders. She is extremely organized and efficient in her work. Our graduate programs have high national rankings in our respective areas and Jill is a major reason for helping us maintain the outstanding reputation of quality graduate education programs. Jill is also exceptional with maintaining good student and faculty relationships. Students applying to our graduate programs are highly impressed with Jill’s assistance and the time spent helping then with their graduate program or application needs. Jill goes the extra mile even though her position doesn’t call for it. I can’t think of a better staff member of our college than Jill England!"
